

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A computer supported system especially configured for users to easily coordinate or harmonize apparel before making a purchasing decision. The embodiments include a body profile generating, encoding and decoding system. The system provides the conversion of a body profile code to fit with a particular garment size defined by a garment size chart. The enhanced body profile coding and decoding system also provide flexibility and room for future expansion and applications.